Reports to Members

FROM your PRESIDENT by Bill Sax

Greetings CCI,
Hi! How does time fly so fast? I retired eight months ago and technically I have more time. But it doesn't feel like it. We are wrapping up our winter season and will be heading to Texas until May then home for family time. Then June we are heading west.

We have owned our Country Coach, we call her "CC", for five years. (I know, how original. But our story on her name is fun). Anyway, my driving lesson for a big motor coach was the test drive. After we signed the paperwork it was an OJT thing. Yes there were some questionable decisions. But now I am correctly licensed as an Illinois Class B non CDL driver. But I digress.

I have always been pleased on how well my Country Coach handles. Of course, I have little to compare it too. But as all the other Country Coach owners brag about it so do I. Recently CC developed a loud squeak and an occasional "clunk" and it sounded like it came from the right front wheel. A quick inspection at our favorite garage and discovered the sway bar bushings were loose & worn. Replaced them and on the road again. But the noise came back. New Koni shocks were prescribed and installed. The ride certainly improved but the clunk & squeak persisted. Now they were talking about control arm issues. I contacted Eric Olstrom and he said, "I have not seen any of the control arms go bad , Ever, but that doesn't mean you're not the first."

I really like my mechanic, but they are a trucking company and I don't think they were certain of the cause. But since we were going to be in the Orlando area I took CC to Josam's Truck Alignment. All our friends bragged about them so we made an appointment.

All I can say is wow! They quickly found the problem, yes it was the control arm, yes I am the first! Apparently, the control arm was installed with no grease fittings. Josam's was able to remove the covers & install grease fittings and add grease for the first time in 11 years! Guess what all the noise is GONE. Plus, CC was out of alignment all around. I just attributed the handling to the wind or the road. So, all I have to say is I thought she handled good before? Now she handles like a a dream!

'til next month,
We'll be CCing you.....

Bill

TSD Logistics Fuel Program - Update

For those of you not on Facebook or for those who have not “liked” the TSDRVFuelprogram, you may have not heard that Pilot/Flying J has pulled out of TSD’s program, below is a message posted on FB from TSD Logistics.

“Good morning everyone. I know everyone is disappointed with the Pilot decision; however, they were only a small portion of what is being purchased through our program. I am disappointed as well, because we had approval from our representative at Pilot who is no longer there, but I understand that if they signed a contract they have to honor that contract.

We didn’t even have a discount with them until November, and even with that discount, they have never been the best price. Our other retailers have always been lower on their prices than Pilot. For those of you who still want to stop there, I encourage you to do so and use whatever discount card is available to you. We have always encouraged our customers to do a price check with all discount cards and apps to get the best price. We only want you to use our card if it helps you get the best rate.

The other truck stops continue to offer great discounts and we thank you for your continued support.

I do not believe it is in the best interest of anyone to continue to contact Good Sams and Pilot as I believe the decision has been made. I wish them well and have nothing bad to say about either. It is an unfortunate thing and live goes on.”

If you haven’t signed up, below is the link to sign up - it’s a GREAT way to save on fuel costs. If you’d like to “refer” someone, then find out who you know in CCI that is already signed up and refer them, it’ll get them $25 off of fuel

Loss of Generator Power

Technical Bulletin

Compiled from the Country Coach Tech Topics site by Mike Cebula

by Brian Keys, Country Coach Electrical Engineering Department

• As published in the Summer 2005 issue of Country Coach Destinations

Question:

After running on generator power for about thirty minutes I lose one leg of power in my coach. The power will return on this leg after another five minutes or so but will go off again after a few minutes and this cycle will repeat continuously for as long as the generator is running. I've had the generator and transfer switch checked out by a shop and they can find nothing wrong. Where do I look next?

Answer:

The good news is that the problem seems to be consistent, so it shouldn't be too difficult to reproduce the symptoms and diagnose the source of the problem as it occurs. Have someone take a close look at your transfer switch as the leg of power drops out. Does one of the relays open up? The relays in your transfer switch are closed by a magnetic field as current passes through a coil located within the relay. These coils get quite hot in use and consequently expand. After shutting down the generator, these coils are de-energized and will contract again as they cool down.

This cycle of expansion and contraction can over a number of years cause one of the windings in the coil to break. When the coil is cool, the two ends of the break meet and allow current to flow so the coil pulls in the relay and transfers power into the coach. As the coil heats and expands, the two ends of the break can separate and break the path of electrical current, causing the relay to open which in turn interrupts the leg of power. As you can guess, the coil cools, contracts, the ends meet and you have a heat/cool cycle that will continue until the generator is shut down or the coil fails permanently.

This scenario is not very common by any means but it can occur with older transfer switches. You might be tempted to forgo the expense of replacing the entire transfer switch by only changing out the failed relay, but this usually turns out to be a false economy since Murphy's Law dictates that the remaining components in the transfer switch will become disgruntled with the new blood in their midst and quickly fail in rapid succession.

History of 3R RV

Jimmie started out working for Byerly in 1981. Jimmie was frustrated in his position as service manager because he was unable to help long time customers, because sales kept the shop so busy there wasn't room or time. So in October 2005, 3R RV was conceived. We knew we did not want to sell anything, we just wanted to help folks stay in their current unit and help keep them maintained. We met with Frank Reed who was looking to semi-retire from the RV business, came to an agreement and we opened our doors December 1st, 2005. We owe our success to all of you, for spreading the word about 3R RV and the great service our technicians provide. Our Technicians are RVIA Certified. We strive to do our best, but we are not perfect and when we make a mistake, we hope you give us the chance to make it right. We can't fix what we don't know about.

We started this business because the wait time to get in was months at dealers and we are finding that we are so busy we are weeks out, a month if its major repair. This is not acceptable to us that is why we are looking to hire 1-2 more technicians or anyone with construction background. Do you know of anyone that loves helping customers, likes learning and looking for a career with benefits, if so have them call 636-583-2244 and ask for Christina Reynolds. If they have a good work ethic we can teach them the rest.
